Requirements and options are subject to change. It is the student's responsibility to take courses when they are offered, as not all courses are available every year. Some courses may be available through the Music Department and others will be offered on request due to the limited number of students in this concentration. Undergraduate music majors may wish to combine some of these requirements with those of another concentration, such as education or missions. You may consult with the music professor or with your adviser. The Associate Dean may be consulted about course availability and the substitution of graduate courses taken in other schools at Campbell or elsewhere.

*Courses rotate every 4 semesters. No course is prerequisite to any other course.
